

CI LIQUID ALTERNATIVE INVESTMENT STRATEGIES

CI Marret Alternative Enhanced Yield Strategy

NOVEMBER 2020

CI Marret Alternative Enhanced Yield Fund (the Fund) seeks to provide income with low volatility regardless of market conditions. The Fund invests primarily in fixed income across the credit spectrum including cash and cash equivalents. The Fund's active management provides income while targeting low correlation to both equity and traditional income.

GLOBAL MACRO UPDATE

Multiple vaccine studies indicated remarkably high rates of effectiveness, encouraging credit markets to rally significantly in November. Investor confidence in continued central bank support and a return to normalcy next year drove a strong cyclical rotation. This was despite U.S. election uncertainty, a divided government, worrying COVID-19 hospitalization data, and escalating lockdown measures around the world. Strength across credit markets persisted while government bonds also generated slight gains during the month. The government bond sector appeared more focused on the prospects of further central bank support in December given the lack of any additional fiscal stimulus. High-yield debt was particularly strong, as commodity, COVID-19 affected, and weaker-quality credits all provided meaningful gains. The compression in risk resulted in high-yield spreads falling approximately 100 bps, back to pre COVID-19 levels, and yields falling to 4.6%, the lowest on record.

POSITIONING UPDATE

The Fund generated positive returns, benefitting from its exposure to credit as spreads tightened aggressively in November. Active management of the Fund's long duration government bond position also contributed to returns.

OUTLOOK

The overwhelming market consensus is that continued central bank support and normalizing economic activity means a return to a 'search for yield' environment in the foreseeable future. Valuations reflect this investor belief. Attractive risk-adjusted returns are achieved by thoughtfully assessing risks when the market perceives there are none. As experienced investors, we have seen sentiment shifts many times, over many cycles, and believe there are more shifts to come as the recovery evolves. We are also aware liquidity is the primary driver of these markets. We continue to maintain our core exposures, but also believe the most prudent approach is to maintain flexibility and respond tactically to opportunities as these arise.

GLOSSARY OF TERMS

Duration: A measure of the sensitivity of the price of a fixed income investment to a change in interest rates. Duration is expressed as number of years. The price of a bond with a longer duration would be expected to rise (fall) more than the price of a bond with lower duration when interest rates fall (rise).

DISCLAIMERS

Commissions, trailing commissions, management fees and expenses all may be associated with an investment in mutual funds and exchange-traded funds (ETFs). Please read the prospectus before investing. Important information about mutual funds and ETFs is contained in its respective prospectus. Mutual funds and ETFs are not guaranteed; their values change frequently, and past performance may not be repeated. You will usually pay brokerage fees to your dealer if you purchase or sell units of an ETF on recognized Canadian exchanges. If the units are purchased or sold on these Canadian exchanges, investors may pay more than the current net asset value when buying units of the ETF and may receive less than the current net asset value when selling them.

CI Liquid Alternative investment funds have the ability to invest in asset classes or use investment strategies that are not permitted for conventional mutual funds. The specific strategies that differentiate these investment funds from conventional fund structure include: increased use of derivatives for hedging and non-hedging purposes; increased ability to sell securities short; and the ability to borrow cash to use for investment purposes. While these strategies will be used in accordance with the investments funds' investment objectives and strategies, during certain market conditions they may accelerate the pace at which your investment decreases in value.
